

ONLY FIFTEEN MEN.

That is the Number of Recruits Now Wanted.

The Officers Here But Are Unable to Work For Lack of Blanks.

Capt. H. L. Atkinson and Privates H. H. Hopson, E. A. Davis, Arthur Chapman and F. O. Prowse, recruiting officers for the Third Regiment, are here, but out of blanks and have not yet begun business. They were to remain two days, but will remain longer if necessary and leave direct for Chickamauga as soon as they have secured fifteen recruits.

They obtained 25 at Paducah, making 85 in the six towns visited and need only 15 more. Three of these from Paducah and four from Mayfield who could not be enlisted at Paducah for lack of blanks, are already here.

Up to three o'clock to-day four local names had been handed in—R. J. Johnson, Henry Hardwick, Chas. E. Hord and E. E. Earle.

If these are all accepted it will leave only four more to be recruited. If the 15 are secured to-morrow, the officers and recruits will leave at once for the front, otherwise they will wait another day. The blanks are expected on the train to-night from Frankfort.

Dr. Jackson is the examining surgeon and the recruits will probably be examined at his office.

JIM BOWLING'S EYES.

How He Happened to Get Them Blacked.

The Leaf Chronicle has this account of an accident to Mr. J. M. Bowling:

"Mr. J. M. Bowling, who had been to Hopkinsville to visit his sister, Mrs. B. S. Wood, returned home last night. Much to the surprise of his family and his numerous friends, he brought back with him a pair of mighty black eyes. He said that he had gone into a stable to examine a mule that stood in one of the stalls. The animal resented the intrusion, and immediately began to make demonstration with his business end. This necessitated a much more hurried exit than Mr. Bowling had intended, but he departed, and stood not upon the order of his departure. The door didn't open fast enough for him, and he in some manner jammed his face between the door and the door frame, receiving some very painful bruises, from which blood flowed freely."

BORDERS GOT HER.

A Romance of Three Hearts that Ends in a Wedding.

How a Logan County Youth Captured a Cadiz Boy's Best Girl.

Tuesday afternoon a business-like young man arrived in Hopkinsville, procured a rig and set out for Cadiz about five o'clock. The same young man returned shortly before midnight with a beautiful young woman and registered at the Phoenix as "Harry Borders and wife, Keysburg, Ky."

For some time young Borders had been in love with Miss Annie Banks, one of the prettiest girls in Cadiz.

He had a rival and a very formidable one in the person of a young druggist of Cadiz, whose name will not be used, but whom we will for the purpose of this article designate as Ed.

The contest between Harry and Ed was close and exciting, with Harry at the disadvantage of being in Logan county while Ed was on the ground.

Sometimes one seemed to be ahead and sometimes the other appeared to lead.

The race became so exciting that Harry thought the matter over and concluded that he could not endure the suspense any longer. Once having made up his mind, the next thing was to act.

He took the train for this city and proceeded to Cadiz with the intention of taking the girl back home with him or retiring from the fight for her heart and hand. How well he succeeded is told in the first paragraph of this narrative.

He arrived at Cadiz shortly after dark and lost no time in submitting his ultimatum. After a brief parley, there was an "unconditional surrender" and by nine o'clock a marriage license had been procured, the ceremony that united them had been said and Mr. Borders with his bride by his side was driving furiously away from Cadiz. He is still at the Phoenix Hotel and will return home on the 5:13 train this afternoon.

Mr. Borders is a wealthy young farmer who lives alone with his father in a fine old mansion near Keysburg. He will take his pretty bride to his home, where she will be given a cordial welcome by the father.

The bride is a niece of Mrs. Jno. G. Jefferson and has spent much of her time with her aunt. She is a remarkably pretty and attractive young lady and it is no wonder that her hand and heart should have so much sought after.

A gentleman who arrived from Cadiz to-day is authority for the statement that Ed found, when he got up this morning, that the boys had tied crape on his door during the night.

SET FOR FRIDAY.

The Prison Commissioners Have Not Yet Been Elected.

Frankfort, Ky., June 29.—Candidates and their friends continue to come, and the members of the Prison Commission Board are besieged on all sides. Chairman George said this morning: "We have not yet selected a single officer, and will not do so until Friday." This is done for the purpose of giving candidates and their friends an opportunity to be heard, and at the instance of telegrams from many candidates who have been unable to reach here.

Chairman George said the question as to whether members of the Legislature could serve as officers after having voted for the bill, which, it is alleged, created the offices, had been discussed, but no action had been taken. Should this interfere the whole slate will be changed.

Rev. Frank Wallace, of Pendleton county, is a late candidate for Chaplain at Frankfort.

South Trimble is still tipped for Warden here. Recent complications have started rumors that Sam Norman and Eph Lillard may win. Smith, of Bowling Green, is now thought to be "cinched" for Warden at Eddyville. Slates are evidently being changed all around and the best guessers are now at sea.

ALLEN OF COURSE.

mindful of the conflict that must be waged in our own land—the bloodless conflict for the maintenance of our republican institutions and the welfare and happiness of our own people, with "equal rights to all and exclusive privileges to none." I believe that these can best be attained through the principles and teachings of the Democratic party.

From the time of Jefferson and Madison down to our own the fundamental principles of the Democratic party have been the preservation of personal rights of the states, the supremacy of the powers delegated by the states to the federal government, freedom of speech, freedom of the press, freedom of conscience, and freedom of the unlimited coinage of gold and silver as the standard money of the country. The Democratic party stands for an economical administration of public affairs, a tariff for revenue only, believing that all unnecessary taxation is unjust and the promoter of monopolies and trusts offering the means of unduly enriching combinations and impoverishing the masses of the people, including every tiller of the soil and every laborer of the land, so that the government instead of being administered for all the people is manipulated in the interests of the few.

While we believe in the sacred rights of property as defined by law we condemn the policy of any party or administration that fosters legislation which permits property to be taken under sanction of law from the pocket of one man in order to enrich another.

We believe in honest money—that each dollar should be as good as any other dollar, and we are opposed to all legislation and administrative policies that would discriminate against and debase one dollar in order to make another dollar dearer.

We are opposed to the issue of interest-bearing bonds in time of peace, and also opposed to them in time of war when no necessity exists, and I assert that the provision in the present war revenue bill for the issue of $400,000,000 of bonds was not as necessary for the carrying on of this war as it was for the perpetuation of the single gold standard and the national banking system.

When on the 23rd day of April, 1898, the House of Representatives passed the resolution declaring war against Spain there was hardly a man in the country who believed war would last more than six weeks, and men everywhere were ready to shoulder their rifles for the cause of human liberty. When our warship weighed anchor at Key West and steamed for Cuban shores the people anxiously awaiting news of the conflict, but none came. While these magnificent battleships were patrolling Cuban waters, their brave sailors and marines anxious and eager to strike a blow for this cause, yet awaiting the coming of the American soldiery and orders from the powers that be, the condition of the starving and dying reconcentrados has steadily grown worse until their cries for bread are too weak to be any longer heard; the Spanish Government has armed its forts and battleships for the resisting to death of the invasion of the American troops, while the federal congress through the party in power has enacted a law that burdens this people with $500,000,000 interest bearing debt in bonds and certificates—a rich harvest for the greed of the syndicates and trusts. Not only that, but has permitted the great corporations of the country to go comparatively untaxed, has refused to coin the silver, has rejected the proposition to impose an income tax or to enforce the provisions for that tax as it now remains after the decision of the Supreme Court, but instead has placed the heavy burdens of taxation upon the farming and laboring classes from whom they will gather the means to pay the cost of this war, and from whose ranks have come and always will come the defenders of our nation's honor and independence.

Mr. Chairman and gentlemen, I accept this nomination at your hands and pledge to you, and the democrats of this district, whatever energy and ability I have in defending the resolutions you have adopted, and with the help of all those who believe as we do in the maintenance of the rights of the people I know that victory will come to our cause.

The Convention adjourned in time for the delegates to catch the afternoon trains.
